Hoi An Ancient Town is situated 30 km south of Da Nang and known as a Faifoo to early Western traders. Hoi An was one of the major trading centers in Southeast Asia in the 16th – 17th centuries. Hoi An was also an important port of call for Dutch, Portuguese, Italian, Chinese, Japanese, Indonesia and other merchant vessels in the Far East. In the town, there are one or two streets whose original structures remain almost intact. All the houses were made off rare wood and were decorated with horizontal lacquered board and vertical parallel panels engraved with Chinese characters. Hoi An is highly attractive for historical, geographic, artistic, architectural... aspects.

Mexico Mexico's cities are modern but have traditional indian and Spanish influences. The most important buildings are around a central square, which also serves as a place to meet with friends. There are outdoor marketplaces, where people can find almost anything they need. On Sundays, parks are popular place for family outing. Many people move to Mexico city from rural areas. And it has a lot of excitement, but also lots of traffic and pollution.

Japan Japan's cities also have a mix of traditional and modern characteristics. There are tall office and apartment buildings as well as traditional wooden houses. Many people prefer to live near the centre of cities, but because houses there are expensive, they often commute from the suburbs. Traffic, pollution, and crowds are problems. However, there is little crime, and even very crowded cities have many parks and gardens.
